Overview

Jonathon has more than 25 years' experience in legal practice across Australian law, English law and New York law. He maintains a broad practice encompassing advice and appearance work in high value commercial disputes and in international arbitration, including in mining and energy, insurance, banking and financial services, and public and private international law. He is regularly retained by leading law firms and large corporate clients to conduct arbitrations seated in London, Singapore, Australia and New York. He is also regularly instructed in court proceedings involving arbitrations, including anti-suit injunctions, arbitrator challenges, interim measures and set-aside/enforcement proceedings.

Jonathon is recognised as a leading silk in international law and arbitral law by Who's Who Arbitration and Chambers and Partners. Within arbitration, his subject-matter expertise is general commercial, mining and energy, M&A, international sale of goods (CISG), investment treaty disputes, insurance and financial services.

Jonathon also has an emerging practice as an arbitrator and has substantial experience administering arbitrations in his capacity as Vice President of ACICA.

Prior to joining the Bar, Jonathon was a senior associate at Sullivan & Cromwell LLP in New York from 1999 to 2005 specialising in cross-border banking and finance, sovereign debt restructurings and related arbitrations in Latin America.
