Overview

Matthew has a broad practice in commercial litigation and international arbitration. He has particular interests in shipping and international trade, civil fraud, insurance, banking, company and insolvency law, and the conflict of laws. He is ranked as a Rising Star in The Legal 500, which describes him as “bright” and having “experience beyond his years of qualification”.

Matthew acts regularly in high-value commercial litigation and arbitration. He is instructed in, for example: Republic of Mozambique v Prinvest, a US$3 billion+ Commercial Court dispute involving allegations of bribery and corruption in connection with maritime infrastructure projects in the Republic; Green Elite v Fang Ankong, a dispute in the BVI courts and before the Privy Council involving the alleged breach of directors’ duties; and FIMBank v KCH Shipping, a significant section 69 arbitration appeal regarding the temporal scope of the Hague-Visby Rules time bar in misdelivery claims.

Matthew is also increasingly developing a busy practice as sole counsel. He regularly appears in his own right in the High Court and in arbitration. He recently appeared as the sole advocate in a week-long final arbitration hearing involving a seven-figure commodities dispute, and currently acts unled in a US$20 million+ arbitration involving private equity investments in the Cayman Islands.

Before coming to the Bar, Matthew read law at the University of Oxford and gave tutorials in trusts law to undergraduates as a lecturer of Somerville College, Oxford. During his studies, he obtained a First Class degree and ranked second in the year. He then went on to complete the Bachelor of Civil Law at Oxford with
