Overview

Monica is a specialist in public international law and international arbitration. She is featured in The Lawyer Hot 100 2020 as amongst “the most daring, innovative and creative lawyers” in the United Kingdom and is shortlisted as ‘International Law Junior of the year’ in The Legal 500 Bar Awards 2024. Monica’s advocacy has consistently attracted significant praise. She was ‘Barrister of the Year’ finalist in The Lawyer Awards 2020 (alongside four QCs (as it was then)), and won ‘Environment Junior of the Year’ at the Chambers and Partners UK Bar Awards 2023. She is recognised as a leading practitioner in public international law in the main legal directories which describe her as a ‘highly respected international lawyer’ possessing ‘amazing brainpower’ and delivering ‘excellent oral submissions... impressive on paper and on her feet’; as a barrister with a ‘sharp intellect, dedication and excellent knowledge of the law and experience, willing and able to think outside the box’; ‘incredibly hard working with a fine eye for detail’ and as ‘a great junior who will take Silk before too long.’

Monica is a generalist public international advocate. She was awarded the prestigious Diploma of the Hague Academy of International Law early in her career for demonstrating exceptional command of the entire canon of public international law areas. Her practice in public international law is substantial and covers the full spectrum in the field, including statehood, treaty interpretation, state responsibility, the law of immunities, investment law, law of the sea, boundary delimitation, transboundary environmental damage, environmental law, UN law, the law of international organisations, diplomatic protection, consular law, self-determination, human rights, use of force, international refugee law, humanitarian law, international criminal law and international dispute settlement. She has made seminal contributions in various specialist areas of public international law.

Monica's practice also covers private international law (acting increasingly, in group litigation), international arbitration and public law. In addition to counsel work, Monica also accepts appointments as arbitrator. Prior to the Bar Monica trained in a civil law system. Her dual training in the common law and civil law systems (with fluency in legal technical Spanish) is making her a popular choice as counsel/arbitrator in international arbitration cases. She is currently sitting as co-arbitrator in an USD $70 million+ LCIA arbitration and recently sat as Chair in a €1.2 billion+ claim investment arbitration with a seat in The Hague. Monica has been a guest lecturer at the LCIL Executive Course on Investment Law and Arbitration, University of Cambridge. She is in the UK-Korea FTA and UK-Japan CEPA dispute resolution lists of arbitrators (proposed by the UK) and was appointed by the government of Malaysia to the Advisory Council of the Asian International Arbitration Centre (AIAC).

Regularly instructed in complex and high-profile cases, Monica acts as counsel for Sovereign states and private parties in cases before English courts, international courts and arbitral tribunals under a variety of rules and applicable laws. She has acted and advised in cases before the Court of Appeal, the High Court, the International Court of Justice (ICJ), Permanent Court of Arbitration (PCA), International Tribunal for the Law of the Sea (ITLOS), OECD procedures, UN human rights treaty-based and Charter-based bodies, regional human rights Courts, East African Court of Justice, ICSID, SCC, LCIA and SIAC tribunals, International Criminal Tribunal for ex-Yugoslavia (ICTY), UN Special Procedures and diplomatic fora. She is admitted before the International Criminal Court (ICC). Increasingly, she is instructed to appear also in foreign courts. She advises in English, Spanish and French.

Monica is considered to be one of the preeminent experts in climate change and environmental litigation worldwide. She provided seminal advice to Sovereign States on the feasibility of an Advisory Opinion on climate change before the ICJ and ITLOS, and her expertise in this area of law is acknowledged in her appointment to the IUCN World Commission on Environmental Law (Oceans and Climate Change Specialist Groups). Notably, she was a speaker addressing the topic of the "World Court and Climate Change" at COP26 in Glasgow and is currently acting for a Sovereign State in Obligations of States in Respect of Climate Change in the ICJ, for a party in the Advisory proceedings on the Climate Emergency and Human Rights in the Inter-American Court of Human Rights, and was instructed in the Request for an Advisory Opinion on Climate Change and International Law before ITLOS (for WWF). Monica also acted in the first climate change contentious case before the UN Human Rights Committee, the Torres Strait Islanders case, securing a landmark decision protecting the rights of peoples in low-lying islands, and in the ground-breaking Los Cedros case, the first 'Rights of Nature' case in the world, before the Constitutional Court of Ecuador. In recent years she has been active in cases raising sea-level rise issues, sinking islands, environmental degradation, oil spills, transboundary harm, climate change as a human right issue, environmental harm of waterways, protection of rivers, biodiversity, phasing-out coal mining cases and the enforcement of the Paris Agreement before a variety of international organs. She also advised a State Party representative of a Least Developed Country in the drafting of the Rules of Procedure of Compliance with the Paris Agreement and acted as adviser for a party at COP28 on proposals of a text for a fossil fuels resolution, contributing to the historic adoption of a COP28 Resolution on fossil fuels containing unambiguous language. Monica's work has been featured in the documentary series Earthrise, 'Planetary Justice' by Al Jazeera, broadcasted in 2022 and

Monica's current international practice also includes advising in matters relating to Statehood and Self-Determination before UN political organs (GA, UN Security Council, and the UN Special Committee on Decolonization). In litigation in English Courts, Monica has developed expertise in Group Litigation and recently appeared in a high-profile torts group claim in the energy sector raising conflict of law issues in the High Court. Her recent work also includes acting in a deprivation of nationality case and in technology-related cases involving bulk surveillance and the right of privacy (Gençay Bastimar v Turkey), and successfully defending a claim in the first case in which the OECD Guidelines have been applied to a digital dispute involving cryptocurrency.

Monica is an expert in the substance and procedure (including service of process) of diplomatic immunity, state immunity, and the immunity of State officials and special missions. She is also an expert in consular law, in all aspects of the Vienna Convention on Consular Relations and the Vienna Convention on Diplomatic Relations. From 2018 to 2019 she served as Assistant Legal Adviser at the Legal Directorate of the UK's Foreign and Commonwealth Office where she routinely advised in those areas, including in the implementation of the Supreme Court judgment in Benkharbouche (in which the UKSC held the incompatibility of sections of the State Immunity Act with Article 6 of the European Convention on Human Rights). During her time at the FCO, Monica advised in a broad number of cases raising sensitive extra-territorial issues, and led the litigation on behalf of the FCO, in Verica Tomanovic and others v FCO, in the High Court (alleged vicarious liability for human rights violations of the contributing state to EULEX) and Foreign Commonwealth Office v Bamieh [2019] EWCA Civ 803 (relating to the extra-territorial application of the Employment Rights Act 1996) in the Court of Appeal.

Recent notable work includes acting for a Sovereign in an employment case rising issues of State immunity decided in The Royal Embassy of Saudi Arabia (Cultural Bureau) & Ms A Alhayali; acting in the judicial review of Harry Dunn's parents against the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs (raising nuanced aspects of diplomatic immunity), advising a UN Specialised Agency on the immunity of international organisations and arbitration in complex contracts, advising in the high-profile US$1 billion gold dispute relating to the Central Bank of Venezuela (on recognition of governments and executive certification before commercial courts), and advising a State sitting on the board of the World Bank on immunity matters. Her expertise in the area of immunities is reflected in her forthcoming book Foreign State Immunity and Enforcement of Arbitral Awards in English Courts to be published by Oxford University Press.

Monica's career at the Bar is built on significant experience working for international courts and tribunals which include the International Court of Justice where she advised in the seminal case on Genocide (Bosnia v Ex-Yugoslavia), and the ICTY (Chamber Trial I) where she advised on international humanitarian law and the law of command responsibility. Her experience working with international law institutions includes assisting members of the International Law Commission (ILC) drafting comments to the ILC Draft Articles on State Responsibility, acting as Amicus (with the ILC Special Rapporteur on Diplomatic Protection); drafting responses relating to UN Special Procedures; acting as expert to the Final Report of the Independent Expert on the right to reparation for victims of gross violations of human rights and humanitarian law; assisting in the drafting of UN General Assembly Resolutions (in an advisory capacity); and serving as legal adviser to a State Delegation to the Diplomatic Conference that negotiated the Rome Statute and Monica's litigation work in public international law has been cited in Armed Activities on the Territory of the Congo (Democratic Republic of the Congo v Uganda) in the ICJ, in the Reparations Order in The Prosecutor v Bosco Ntaganda and in the Katanga case by the ICC, as well as in proceedings before UN organs. Her scholarship has been referred to in proceedings before the ICJ in the case of Avena and Other Mexican Nationals (Mexico v United States of America), by the African Court on Human and People's Rights, by the UN Secretary General on a Guidance Notes on Reparations under International Law, and by Lord Carnwath of the UK Supreme Court.

Monica has published extensively in the area of public international law (with recent contributions to the Max Planck Encyclopedia of International Procedural Law, a Chapter in a seminal book on Deep Sea Mining together with Judge Kamga of ITLOS, several publications on climate change and international courts, and a Chapter on arbitration-related applications before the European Court of Human Rights in International Arbitration and EU Law). She is the editor of International Law for the 21st Century: Essays in Honour of A.A. Cançado Trindade (Asser Press, Springer, forthcoming). Her latest scholarship in investment law and arbitration was designated compulsory reading at the Hague Academy Private International Law course in The Hague. She has lectured and been a speaker worldwide including as guest lecturer at Oxford University; Kurt Bosch-University of Fribourg, Switzerland; Guangxi Normal University (Faculty of Law), China; the United Nations (Geneva); Council of Europe; Lancaster House (FCO); Trinity College, Dublin (Distinguished Speakers Series); the British Institute of Comparative and International Law; Universidad de los Andes Law Faculty (Colombia); Universidad Autónoma de Mexico; Universidad de Chile (Faculty of law), the National & Kapodistrian University of Athens (Faculty of Law); Jindal Global Law School (India); Scuola Superiore Sant'Anna (Pisa); FGV Rio de Janeiro Law School; NUS Centre for International Law - CIL eAcademy (Singapore), and Georgetown University Law Centre. She has held academic positions at the Lauterpacht Centre for International Law (University of Cambridge) (Visiting Scholar and Partner Fellow), and at the London School of Economics (as Teaching Assistant to H.E. Christopher Greenwood, former ICJ Judge). In 2021, she was elected Visiting Fellow at Jesus College, University of Cambridge.

Monica has taken part in expert missions to Kenya (2020), Myanmar (2016), Guatemala (2015), and has trained advocates in South Africa on international law (2017), Colombian lawyers on judicial processes in the context of transitional justice (2017), and members of the Bar in Honduras on international arbitration (2016).

She has been appointed to the Equality and Human Rights Commission's Panel of Preferred Counsel (B Panel) who are generally instructed where "substantial knowledge and experience is required" in cases of great public importance concerning the Equality Act 2010 and human rights breaches in litigation before domestic and European Courts. Monica was benched at the Middle Temple in 2021.

Public international law - English courts - Constitutional and Public Law

Monica is a leading barrister in public international law and ranked in the legal directories where it is noted that she is “an expert in public international law, particularly in relation to international organisations and on privileges and immunities”. In 2018 she was selected by the Foreign & Commonwealth Office to speak on ‘Public International Law before UK Courts’, at the Annual Government Legal Profession International Law Conference opened by the Attorney General.

Monica acts for, and against, the crown. She has acted for/advised the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs, the Secretary of State for the Home Department, the Secretary of State for Transport, the Secretary of State for International Development, and the National Crime Agency. She also acts for claimants and foreign States. Monica is national security vetted ('Security Check' level) and is comfortable working with sensitive material.

Monica acts and advises in all areas of public international law arising in domestic disputes, often in the intersection between commercial law and public international law, as in cases where different areas of public international law appear to converge (or apparently to conflict), namely human rights, EU law (and its application to human rights), immunities, and international humanitarian law. Monica often is called to act in cases of legal complexity including those raising national security issues. Monica holds particular expertise in consular law, diplomatic law, State, diplomatic and special mission immunities, including nuanced procedural aspects of these areas of law. During 2018-2019, Monica was seconded to the Legal Directorate of the Foreign & Commonwealth Office.

Monica has routinely advised on immunity cases raising diplomatic immunity, state immunity, immunity of heads of states, and the immunity of international organisations inter alia service of process, the immunity of personnel of international missions (in two cases before the English courts), immunity of sovereign aircraft, state-owned property immunity, the immunity of special missions, a non-recognised state and immunity law, various claims on diplomatic immunity, immunity of state property in enforcement proceedings (in several jurisdictions) and the immunity of state officials. Monica is a world expert on enforcement immunity in the context of enforcement of arbitral awards. Her forthcoming book Foreign State Immunity and Enforcement of Arbitral Awards in English Courts is to be published (Oxford University Press) in 2024. She also holds expertise in construing the State immunity Act 1978 and other domestic statutes by reference to International UK obligations, inter alia those under the European Convention on Human Rights and EU law.

Monica's domestic practice also extends to advising in environmental strategic litigation in the public sector. She has been instructed to advise in legislative initiatives at local and national level in environmental matters.

Recent cases include:

- J.H.G.N and The Secretary of State for the Home Department (First Tier Tribunal (Immigration and Asylum Chambers)) - acting as sole counsel in an appeal of a vulnerable applicant under the Refugee Convention and Articles 3 and 8 of the European Convention on Human Rights.
- Advising on an environmental law bill.
- Instructed to draft a charter on the Rights of the River Ouse in Sussex, England, a first of its kind in England, and to advise on its operationalisation.
- The Queen (On the Application of Charlotte Charles and Tim Dunn) and The Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs - (for the claimants) acted in the judicial review of Harry Dunn's parents against the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs (raising nuanced aspects of diplomatic immunity and Article 2 obligations under the European Convention on Human Rights).
- Deutsche Bank AG London Branch and Receivers Appointed by the Court, Central Bank of Venezuela, and The Governor and Company of the Bank of England and The Ad Hoc Administrative Board of The Central Bank of Venezuela and the Board of the Central Bank of Venezuela [2020] EWHC 1721 (The High Court, Queen's Bench Division Commercial Court) - Advised the Board of the Central Bank of Venezuela on matters of public international law (recognition of governments and executive certification) relating to this high-profile US$1bn gold dispute before commercial courts. The case received great media attention with coverage by The Financial Times, Forbes, Reuters, The Telegraph, CNBC, ITV, Al Jazeera and The Guardian.

Private international law

Monica has a keen interest in conflict of laws and extra-territorial torts. In particular, in cases raising issues of corporate liability for extra-territorial torts and cases alleging corporate complicity in human rights violations and/or environmental harm. Her public international law background enables her to effectively deal with act of state doctrine arguments in the context of extra-territorial violations. Her developing expertise in this area of law is reflected in her speaking engagements which includes being a panellist on "Parent Company Liability in English law" at the 2018 UN Forum Business & Human Rights at the UN Headquarters in Geneva.

Her dual training in the common law and civil law systems allows her to be comfortable handling cases arising from common law and civil law jurisdictions. Originally trained as an advocate in Latin America, and with over 15 years' international experience in the region, Monica has particular interest in representing cases arising from Latin American jurisdictions. Her ability to handle evidence in the technical, legal, native language, has come as an advantage in her practice, especially in the representation of cases where the applicable law may be foreign law.

Example cases:

- Bravo and others v Amerisur Resources plc [2020] EWHC 203 (QB), (for defendant) (Colombia/UK) acted in this claim for economic and non-economic damage allegedly caused by environmental contamination and pollution of land and waterways by oil spill (oil & gas). The applicable law in the case was Colombian law. The case raised questions under Brussels I (Recast). The case has been reported by The Lawyer.
- In Amenas terror attack – BP – Advised on a conflict of laws issues arising from a tort taking place overseas (Private International Law Act 1995, Rome II, and Brussels I) and due diligence duties owed by a company to its employees in the context of a terrorist attack at an Algerian gas plant.
- Pedro Emiro Florez Arroyo and Equion Energia Limited (formerly known as BP Exploration Company (Colombia) (Ltd)) (In the matter of the Ocesa pipeline group litigation) before the Technology and Construction Court (on behalf of the claimants) (Assisted Alex Layton KC in this case case brought by Colombian farmers claiming for environmental damage and damage to their land, caused by the construction of an oil pipeline, against BP, and decided by the English Courts under Colombian law). Described in the media as “one of the largest cases in environmental legal history”, the trial lasted five months.
- Carried out comparative analysis on issues concerning tort, private international law and corporate liability in the United States (under the Aliens Tort Act jurisprudence) and tort under English law

Examples of other conflict of law/private international law cases:

- In Amenas terror attack – BP – Advised on conflict of laws issues relating to the manner in which evidence provided in judicial proceedings in France could be used to support legal proceedings in English courts and on the applicable procedural law.
- Advised on conflict of law issues and the applicability of The Hague Convention of 25 October 1980 on the Civil Aspects of International Child Abduction (HCCH 1980 Child Abduction Convention) and the repatriation of children of British Nationality from a foreign jurisdiction (war zone).
- Actavis UK v Eli Lilly [2015] EWCA Civ 555 – Assisted Thomas Raphael KC (arguing the private international law aspects of the case for Actavis) in a multi-billion pound case before the Court of Appeal, raising issues of patent law across Europe as well as of private international law (a case concerning five jurisdictions), as Lilly argued that the conditions for negative declaratory relief were governed by the lex causae not the lex fori. Monica made a substantial contribution to the private international law arguments which secured Actavis winning its case on private international law, as the Court of Appeal concluded that the conditions for negative declaratory relief are procedural and governed by the lex fori under Rome II in its judgment, the lead judgment on this aspect of the new Rome II Regulation. (Areas of work in the case included Interpretation of Rome II/ lex fori/lex causae principle/interpretative principles/forum shopping/EU legislation/Academic commentary) Languages used: German/Spanish/English).

Banking and financial services

Monica is developing a practice on the interface between banking and financial services and public international law, in which she is an expert. She has been called to advise on complex issues relating to immunities of international financial institutions such as the World Bank and on issues of recognition of government on a US$1bn banking dispute. She is very experienced in recognition of states, recognition of governments, succession, jurisdictional immunities, immunities in enforcement proceedings (Bank account missions, Central Banks), justiciability doctrine and executive certifications. Monica is a regular contributor to the Journal of International Banking Law and Regulation.

- Deutsche Bank AG London Branch and Receivers Appointed by the Court, Central Bank of Venezuela, and The Governor and Company of the Bank of England and The Ad Hoc Administrative Board of The Central Bank of Venezuela and the Board of the Central Bank of Venezuela [2020] EWHC 1721 (The High Court, Queen’s Bench Division Commercial Court) – Advised the Board of the Central Bank of Venezuela on matters of public international law (recognition of governments and executive certification) relating to this high-profile US$1bn gold dispute before commercial courts. The case received great media attention with coverage by The Financial Times, Forbes, Reuters, The Telegraph, CNBC, ITV, Al Jazeera and The Guardian.
- Advising on the law governing immunities under customary international law, and diplomatic law, in the context of an attempted seizing of funds of a diplomatic mission’s bank account in Democratic Republic of Congo) in the context of enforcement proceedings.
- Advising a diplomatic mission in enforcement proceedings in Mali (francophone jurisdiction) whereby bank accounts belonging to the mission had been seized – secured the measure was lifted within 24 hours.
- Jam v International Finance Corporation (586 U.S. 2019) (US Supreme Court) (India/US) – Advising (unled) a State sitting on the board of the World Bank on the implications of this US Supreme Court judgment which denied absolute immunity to the IFC as an international organisation. The case was brought by Indian fishing communities and farmers from India against the IFC, a member of the World Bank Group over the adverse environmental impact of a power station (the Tata Mundra Ultra Mega coal-fired power plant in Gujarat, India) partly funded by the IFC. The case has been covered by the Washington Post, The Financial Times, NPR, The Guardian and Bloomberg.

- Advising a Sovereign State on its position on immunity and liabilities as guarantor on aircraft leasing contracts entered into by its national airline in the context of proceedings against the airline for alleged default in its contractual obligations; in particular, as to whether the guarantees it provided were “on demand” or a secondary liability, and on issues of State immunity under the 1978 State Immunity Act (led by Thomas Raphael KC)

Energy and natural resources

Monica has advised and appeared in significant disputes involving major international energy companies (often unled), across all energy sectors; namely, mining, oil & gas, renewables, mega-hydroelectric projects, and is a leading barrister in disputes relating to climate change. Her cases in the energy sector often raise issues connected with Private International Law and Public International Law, in which she is an expert. Her litigation work in this area has led to her being featured in The Lawyer magazine’s Hot 100 in 2020.

Examples of her recent cases in the energy sector are:

- Advised a party on a text proposal for a COP28 resolution on fossil fuels (contributing to the historic adoption of a COP28 Resolution containing unambiguous language).
- Provided strategic formal advice on group litigation in English courts, in a case, in the energy sector.
- Advised in a claim in the oil and gas sector before the East African Court of Justice.
- OECD claim against Marsh (for the claimants) acted in a claim alleging that insurance broker giant Marsh is violating OECD guidelines for responsible business conduct by serving as insurance broker for the US$3.5 billion planned East African Crude Oil Pipeline (EACOP), the longest heated crude oil pipeline in the world. The claim is the first of its kind against an insurance company. (oil and gas).
- OECD claims against BHP, Anglo American, Glencore and ESB (for the claimants) secured an initial assessment in favour of the claimants in multiple complaints under the OECD Guidelines for Multinational Enterprises, filed before multiple National Contact Points (NCPs) in Australia, the United Kingdom, Switzerland, and Ireland, against three parent companies over allegations of serious human rights abuses and devastating environmental pollution at a coal mine, and against Ireland’s state-owned energy provider over purchases of coal from the mine having allegedly failed to identify adverse impacts which are directly linked to the mine operations. (mining)
- Amicus Curiae, On the Constitutionality of Federal Mining Law– before The Supreme Court of Justice of the Nation (SCJN) of Mexico; Legal intervention in a constitutional action brought by the Masewal people of Cuetzalan based in the Sierra Norte of the Mexican state of Puebla against Mexico’s Federal Mining Law. The Amicus covers issues concerning the Right of Consultation under international law in the context of extractive activities. The decision by the SCJN in the case is likely to have a major impact on the extractive sector and on the legislation regulating mining law in Mexico. (mining)
- Corrección case before the UN Special Procedures, UN Special Rapporteur on Environment and Human Rights; UN Special Rapporteur on the Rights to Safe Drinking Water and Sanitation; UN Special Rapporteur on Toxic Wastes and Working Group on Business and Human Rights – (for claimants) (sole counsel). Secured a UN intervention in favour of claimants in this high profile case concerning violations of environmental harm and human rights by one of the largest open pit coal mines in the world owned by BHP, Anglo American and Glencore. The case has received worldwide attention with coverage from The New York Times, Reuters, The Telegraph and the Sydney Morning Herald. (mining)
- Bravo and others v Amerisur Resources plc [2020] EWHC 203 (QB), (for defendant) (Colombia/UK) currently acting in this claim for economic and non-economic damage allegedly caused by environmental contamination and pollution of land and waterways by oil spill (oil & gas). The case has been reported by The Lawyer.
- Bravo and others v Amerisur Resources PLC (freezing injunction application – costs hearing) (for defendant) (led by Alan Maclean KC) (Colombia/UK) – A group of campesinos (small scale farmers) from the Putumayo region of southern Colombia obtained an interim freezing injunction for £3 million+ against Amerisur Resources PLC, an AIM-listed company that was about to be acquired by the Bermuda-incorporated GeoPark group and converted into a private company. (oil & gas)
- Investment Arbitration under the Energy Charter Treaty– Acting as Presiding Arbitrator in a multi-million-pound arbitration between a Sovereign State and an investor alleging breaches of the Energy Charter Treaty (renewables) (details confidential).
- Advising a Sovereign State on remedies for climate change (coral bleach, high acidity in the sea, sinking islands, sea level rise) caused by high gas emissions and the feasibility of an advisory opinion/contentious case under UNCLOS before the International Tribunal for the Law of the Sea or the ICJ.
- Montara Oil Spill case (concerning transboundary harm/Australia), (Indonesia/Australia) sole counsel before UN Special

Proceedings in this case considered to be one of Australia's worst oil disasters (for 13 West Timor regencies) – (state responsibility for transboundary harm (oil spill), law of the sea, precautionary principle, general international law). (oil & gas)

- Torres Strait Islanders case v Australia (UN Human Rights Committee)(Australia) – Acting for claimants in this ground-breaking case on climate change litigation under the International Covenant on Civil and Political Rights. Referred to as the ‘world’s first climate change human rights case’ by the media, the case has received worldwide attention with coverage from The New York Times, The Guardian, Al Jazeera, CNN. (climate change)
- Jam v. International Finance Corporation (586 U.S. 2019) (US Supreme Court) (India/US) – advised (unled) a State sitting on the board of the World Bank on the implications of this US Supreme Court judgment which denied absolute immunity to the IFC as an international organisation. The case was brought by Indian fishing communities and farmers from India against the IFC, a member of the World Bank Group over the adverse environmental impact of a power station (the Tata Mundra Ultra Mega coal-fired power plant in Gujarat, India) partly funded by the IFC. (coal-fired plant)
- Salween River Dams (Myanmar)– Advised (unled) on regulatory aspects (cross-over between public international law and energy and natural resources investment law) of a large-scale hydroelectric project on one of the longest undammed rivers remaining in mainland Southeast Asia, in Myanmar. Monica acted as an expert on corporate due diligence practices under the UN Guiding Principles on Business and Human Rights; entitlements of local communities under international law, standards on the right to consultation; aspects to be addressed by EIAs, balancing rights between investment protection under a BIT and State duties under other treaty obligations, among others.(hydroelectric project)
- Mega hydro-electric project in Chiquimula (Guatemala)– Acted as an expert on issues of human rights of Mayan communities, corporate responsibility and hydro-electric projects in Guatemala. As part of an expert delegation, Monica visited the region, met with all stakeholders and wrote a report on the situation with recommendations. The report addressed issues such as business and human rights good practices (UN Guiding Principles on Business and Human Rights), indigenous peoples’ rights, collective rights to property and their entitlements to land and natural resources, as well as the right to consultation in the context of large-scale investment. (hydroelectric project)
- Camisea Gas Project (Peru)– Advised (unled) on matters concerning exploration of gas in one of the largest undeveloped gas reserves in South America, the Camisea Gas Project, and the rights of indigenous populations in the Amazon (addressing considerations relating to the fragile biodiversity in the relevant Amazon jungle basin, rights of Indigenous Peoples in Voluntary Isolation and Initial Contact living in the area, and the legal status of territorial reserves, within the general framework of international law).
- In Amenas terror attack – BP– Advising on conflict of law issues arising from a tort taking place overseas (Private International Law Act 1995, Rome II, and Brussels I) and due diligence duties owed by a company to its employees in the context of a terrorist attack at an Algerian gas plant.
- Pedro Emiro Florez Arroyo and others v Equion Energia Limited(formerly known as BP Exploration Company (Colombia) Limited) [2016] EWHC 1699 (TCC) (on behalf of the claimants) – assisted Alex Layton KC on this case brought by Colombian farmers claiming for environmental damage and damage to their land, caused by the construction of an oil pipeline, against BP, and decided by the English Courts under Colombian law. Described in the media as “one of the largest cases in environmental legal history”, the trial lasted five months. (oil & gas)

Monica has been a speaker on Energy in Investment Arbitration at different fora including at the Hong Kong Arbitration Week 2016 (“Energy disputes – lessons learnt in Europe and opportunities facing the Chinese energy market”), (representing the Bar) at Russian Law Week 2016 in London, and on “Renewable energy cases in investment treaty arbitration and before the European Court of Justice” at the Stockholm Chamber of Commerce at an event jointly organised by SCC, IBA and ICC.

Recent commentary on Energy disputes includes “ECT and Renewables – An Early Scorecard” (an analysis of recent jurisprudence in Europe under the Energy Charter Treaty) (Project Finance International Sept 21 2016), “South China Sea: Business as Usual?” on implications of the South China Sea case on the Energy Sector (New Law Journal, 7 Oct 2016), a piece on Yukos (“Annulment of the Yukos award: a sore spot in Investment Arbitration?”) and an analysis of the landmark decision Jam v IFC in the Journal of International Banking Law and Regulations. For her arbitration practice (including in the energy sector) see below.

Environment & Climate Change

Monica’s practice in environment is broad and international, appearing both before UK and international courts/tribunals, in environmental law cases. She has been instructed in high-profile, often ground-breaking cases. Her cases raise issues of private and public international law (across the full spectrum of public international law – from immunities of international organisations (like in Jam v IFC) to the law of the sea and environmental protection). She is experienced in dealing with transboundary harm, oil spills, mining disputes, hydroelectric projects, and climate change disputes. She is recognised as a leading barrister in environment in The Legal 500 with clients noting that she “astutely combines vast knowledge of human rights and international environmental law with great advocacy skills”. In 2020, The Lawyer magazine featured her in its Hot 100 list, for her stand-out work in this area of the law.

She has acted on the following matters:

Contentious/Court proceedings

- International Court of Justice – Currently acting for a Sovereign State in Obligations of States in Respect of Climate Change (Advisory Opinion proceedings).

International Finance Corporation* (586 U.S. 2019) (US Supreme Court) (US/India) - advised a State sitting on the board of the World Bank on the implications of this US Supreme Court judgment which denied absolute immunity to the IFC as an international organisation. The case was brought by Indian fishing communities and farmers from India against the IFC, a member of the World Bank Group over the adverse environmental impact of a power station (the Tata Mundra Ultra Mega coal-fired power plant in Gujarat, India) partly funded by the IFC.
- Salween River Dams (Myanmar)- Instructed as adviser on regulatory aspects (cross-over between public international law and energy and natural resources investment law) of a large-scale hydroelectric project on one of the longest undammed rivers remaining in mainland Southeast Asia, in Myanmar.
- Mega hydro-electric project in Chiquimula (Guatemala)- Acting as an expert on issues of human rights of Mayan communities, corporate responsibility and hydro-electric projects in Guatemala. As part of an expert delegation, Monica visited the region, met with all stakeholders and wrote a report on the situation with recommendations. The report addressed issues such as business and human rights good practices (UN Guiding Principles on Business and Human Rights), indigenous peoples' rights, collective rights to property and their entitlements to land and natural resources, as well as the right to consultation in the context of large-scale investment.
- Camisea Gas Project (Peru)- Advising on matters concerning exploration of gas in one of the largest undeveloped gas reserves in South America, the Camisea Gas Project, and the rights of indigenous populations in the Amazon (addressing considerations relating to the fragile biodiversity in the relevant Amazon jungle basin, rights of Indigenous Peoples in Voluntary Isolation and Initial Contact living in the area, and the legal status of territorial reserves, within the general framework of international law).

International arbitration

Monica has been involved in both investment and commercial international arbitrations across a range of sectors (including the construction, telecommunications, energy and the garment sectors) governed by a variety of arbitration rules (ICSID, UNCITRAL, SCC, SIAC, ICC Rules) and applicable laws. She also acts and advises in Inter-State arbitration cases.

Inter-State arbitration

- ITLOS Inter-State arbitration (for the claimant) - currently acting in a matter relating to an arbitration under Annex VII of UNCLOS.
- The Enrica Lexie Incident (Italy v India), an inter-State arbitration under Annex VII of UNCLOS. Permanent Court of Arbitration No. 2015-28 (See also Request for Provisional Measures, before the International Tribunal for the Law of the Sea (ITLOS)) (for Italy) – Monica developed the line of argumentation on individual human rights (due process safeguards under Article 9(2),14(3)(a), 9(1) under the ICCPR) successfully pleaded on behalf of Italy. The case concerns an oil tanker flying the Italian flag, and India’s subsequent exercise of criminal jurisdiction over two Italian marines from the Italian Navy in respect of an incident concerning the killing of two Indian fishermen on board an Indian vessel. The case raises issues of immunity as well as human rights, within the broader framework of the law of the sea.

Commercial and Investment Arbitration

In Investment Arbitration, Monica has expertise on disputes both under multilateral treaties as well as Bilateral Investment Treaties (BITs) including ICSID and NAFTA arbitration and disputes under the Energy Charter Treaty. Monica brings to her Investment Arbitration practice a strong Public International Law foundation. She is experienced in addressing the inter-relationship between Bilateral Investment Treaties and Human Rights (and other competing treaty obligations to investment protection) in the context of BITs disputes, as well as “right to regulate” arguments both under BITs and Energy Charter Treaty claims.

Recent experience in Commercial and Investment Arbitration includes:

- LCIA Arbitration – Arbitrator (three-member tribunal), appointed by the LCIA, in an USD $70 million+ commercial dispute under several agreements for the supply of oil (several arbitrations consolidated in one single arbitration proceedings), under English Law, with a seat in London.
- Advised a Sovereign State on the meaning of the word “territory” in a BIT and jurisdictional issues, the moving-treaty frontier rule, interpretation of Article 15 and 29 of the Vienna Convention on the Law of Treaties, and issues of reciprocity.
- Investment Arbitration under the Energy Charter Treaty– Acted as Presiding Arbitrator in a multi-million-pound arbitration with a seat in The Hague between a Sovereign State and an investor alleging breaches of the Energy Charter Treaty (details confidential).
- Involved in a commercial arbitration raising competition law issues, in the telecommunication sector, under ICC rules, seated in London.
- Advised a newly appointed administration in an Asian State on its BITs liabilities by reference to other conflicting duties under international law.
- Assisted the Tribunal in a commercial international arbitration arising from a JVA agreement in the garment industry, under the SIAC Rules, with seat in Singapore.
- Assisted the Tribunal in an Investment Arbitration case in the construction sector under the Turkish-Turkmenistan BIT.

Monica is in the UK-Korea FTA dispute resolution list of arbitrators (proposed by the UK) and was appointed by the government of Malaysia to the Advisory Council of the Asian International Arbitration Centre (AIAC). She has lectured in the LCIL Executive Course on Investment Law and Arbitration, at the University of Cambridge, specifically on ‘Fair and Equitable Treatment & Full Protection and Security Standard in international investment law’ and has been a speaker on Investment Arbitration at different fora including at the invitation of the UK Embassy in Central America and at Hong Kong Arbitration Week 2016 (“Energy disputes – lessons learnt in Europe and opportunities facing the Chinese energy market”); at the Stockholm Chamber of Commerce in an event jointly organised by SCC, IBA and ICC (“Renewable energy cases in investment treaty arbitration and before the European Court of Justice”); at Russian Law Week 2016 (on enforcement of awards and State entities); and at Oxford University (on “Like Oil and Water? Human Rights in Investment Arbitration in the Wake of Philip Morris v Uruguay case”).

Recent commentary on Investment Arbitration topics includes a piece on Yukos (“Annulment of the Yukos award: a sore spot in Investment Arbitration?”), “ECT and Renewables – An Early Scorecard” (an analysis of recent jurisprudence in Europe under the Energy Charter Treaty), and a forthcoming piece on the Journal of World Investment and Trade.

She is a member of the Chartered Institute of Arbitrators and has recently been listed on the panel of arbitrators of SCC, ICC, and CRECIG (Comisión de Resolución de Conflictos de la Cámara de Industria de Guatemala).

Arbitrator appointments

Monica started her arbitration practice as assistant in commercial and investment arbitrations to renown Arbitrator Julian Lew KC. Monica is a member of the Chartered Institute of Arbitrators and has been a guest lecturer at the LCIL Executive Course on Investment Law and Arbitration, University of Cambridge.

Monica is currently in the UK-Korea FTA and UK-Japan CEPA dispute resolution lists of arbitrators (proposed by the UK) and was appointed by the government of Malaysia to the Advisory Council of the Asian International Arbitration Centre (AIAC). Monica’s experience as arbitrator includes:

- SCC Arbitration (2018-2021) – President of a three-member tribunal in a €1.2 billion+ claim investment arbitration with a seat in The Hague in the renewables sector

- LCIA Arbitration - Arbitrator (three-member tribunal), appointed by the LCIA, in an USD $70 million+ commercial dispute under several agreements for the supply of oil (several arbitrations consolidated in one single arbitration proceedings), under English Law, with a seat in London.

Human rights

Monica brings to the Bar over 20 years of award-winning international litigation experience in human rights cases.

Her human rights practice is international. She acts before the European Court of Human Rights, the Inter-American System and more recently, the African system, as well as before UN Human Rights Treaty-based-bodies (Committee Against Torture), UN Human Rights Committee, CESCR, CEDAW, CRC) and Charter-based bodies under Special Procedures). She is also increasingly being instructed to act/advise on cases before foreign courts (East African Court of Justice, Hong Kong Court of Appeal, Constitutional Court of Ecuador, Supreme Administrative Court Colombia, Supreme Court of Mexico).

Her human rights litigation work covers the full spectrum of human rights: from security of person, the right to privacy, non-discrimination and due process (on civil, administrative and criminal cases) to the rights of the child, gender justice, prisoners' rights and the protection of the right to life and freedom from torture in the context of mass atrocities. Whereas some of the issues she has dealt with have arisen from societies in times of peace, she has wide experience litigating human rights violations taking place in the context of armed conflicts and states of emergency. Monica is very experienced in the investigation of violations of the right to life in the context of counterinsurgency operations, police operations, death under custody and crowd control, and expertise in dealing with cases of mass violations of the right to life of civilians based on alleged direct participation in hostilities. She has experience working with complex forensic evidence requiring specialised knowledge on a wide range of weapons, ammunition and gases (i.e. white phosphorous cases) and their impact on human targets both in closed and open environments.

She has extensive experience dealing with large-scale cases of torture and its investigation under international standards. Her mastering of fair trial standards permitted her to advise the Foreign & Commonwealth Office said standards, and guidance to consular posts around the world.

In her litigation practice, Monica has proven, tested experience in successfully running novel points of law and obtaining ground-breaking decisions. She has used her strong academic foundation in all core areas of Public International Law and her previous practical experience working in large, complex cases before international tribunals (ICTY and ICJ), to successfully represent human rights claims. She has particular experience in dealing with the interface of different areas of public international law (such as immunities/human rights; international human rights law/international humanitarian law; human rights/international refugee law; human rights ius ad bellum/ius in bellum, environmental law/human rights) in human rights litigation.

As a world expert in the Inter-American system, Monica has particular interest in duty to investigate cases (e.g. such as in the context of inquests and enquiries), before English courts, including cases raising extra-territorial issues, concerning massacres or violations taking place abroad. The Inter-American system has produced most of the jurisprudence on the duty to investigate often relied on by the European Court of Human Rights and the UK Supreme Court in deciding cases raising Article 2 of the European Convention. Monica is interested both in extra-territorial cases raising temporal issues under the right to investigate, as well as territorial issues, namely the scope of extraterritorial jurisdiction and the duty to investigate.

Monica also welcomes instructions raising complex jurisdictional public international law matters (such as those raised by extraordinary rendition cases), acts of state doctrine, non-justiciability, and universal jurisdiction.

Monica has also a keen interest in the interface of human rights and environmental law. She acted as counsel in the first world case on climate change (before the UN Human Rights Committee) securing a landmark on climate change justice. She is recognised as a leading barrister in the Legal 500 noting that "She astutely combines vast knowledge of human rights and international environmental law with great advocacy skills." In 2007 she was awarded the Justice Gruber Prize for her international litigation and in 2006, the Inge Genekfe award for her ground-breaking work on torture.

Monica's work in the case covered drafting substantive arguments on State immunity, diplomatic immunity, a review of all relevant Strasbourg jurisprudence, developing key arguments on treaty Interpretation under the Vienna Convention on the Law of Treaties (which included a thorough analysis of the Travaux Préparatoires of the VCDR) as well as a full review of US jurisprudence on diplomatic immunity and preparing arguments on the correct method for serving process on diplomats under English law.

International criminal law, mutual legal assistance, Interpol law

Monica has vast experience of handling complex matters such as genocide, crimes against humanity, war crimes and gross human rights violations amounting to international crimes. She is described in The Legal 500 as “very experienced in international criminal law matters”. She acted as legal adviser to a State delegation during the negotiations of the Rome Statute which established the International Criminal Court. Monica is an experienced counsel in the area of Command Responsibility and on genocide, having worked on seminal cases, during a stint at the International Criminal Tribunal for former Yugoslavia (ICTY) and at the International Court of Justice (Bosnia v Ex-Yugoslavia Genocide case), respectively. She is also an expert in the laws of war and the use of force (ius ad bellum). Notably, she has acted as lead counsel in a case of crimes against humanity on behalf of 800 victims, which led to the prosecution of a former Head of State and represented the first international case on the rights of the child in times of armed conflict.

Recent cases include advising sovereign States and government on terrorist related cases, on torture, on the duty to investigate in the context of peace-building missions, and on legal issues arising from Libya, Iraq, Iran, Syria, Afghanistan, India, and UAE. She has also advised on mutual assistance, extradition and national security related cases. Monica is national security vetted ('Security Check' level) and is comfortable working with sensitive material. She is admitted to appear before the International Criminal Court.
